

"The habits of our lives make us presume that things will happen in a certain foreseeable way, that there will be a vague coherence in the world."

- Adolfo Bioy Casares,
The Invention of Morel